

Law Firm Hosts End-of-Year Party, Commends DAILY ASSET for Media Coverage

By Raphael Atuu, Abuja

The Principal Partner of Lawroot Chambers, Henry Okeke, has hosted members of staff to an end-of-year party and commended Daily Asset Newspaper for its consistent media coverage of the firm's activities.

At a dinner held in Abuja, where staff members were entertained and presented with gifts, Barrister Okeke expressed gratitude to God for His faithfulness throughout the year.

"I must confess that God has been faithful to us throughout the year, and I believe He will do even more when we resume next year," he said.

Okeke also lauded DAILY ASSET Newspaper for its in-depth and consistent reportage of the firm's activities.

"The constant coverage by DAILY ASSET knows no bounds. They report in depth and take readers to where the news is. I appreciate them greatly and urge other media houses to emulate their professionalism," he added.

He further thanked God for blessing the firm, its staff, and the nation throughout the year, while praying for more blessings as they prepare to enter 2026. The legal practitioner also appreciated the dedication of his staff and encouraged them to strive for greater achievements.

The Lawroot Chambers principal also expressed gratitude to the Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of EFAB Estates, Chief Dr. Fabian Nworah, for the opportunity to serve.

"Chief Nworah is God-sent to the people. Beyond providing shelter, he has created jobs, touched many lives, and added value to the nation," Okeke stated.

At the event, a staff member, Asiwaju Babatope praised Okeke for his fatherly leadership and outstanding commitment to the firm.

"I pray for more elevation and God's protection over you and your family," Babatope said.

Another staff member, Musa Sambo, thanked God for the opportunity to work under Okeke, noting that his life has been positively impacted.

"2025 was great, and by God's grace, 2026 will be even greater. I also thank God for the gifts presented to us," he added.

NGO Visits Orphanage, Donates Food Items

By Raphael Atuu, Abuja

A non-governmental organisation (NGO), Nutrition4Humanity in collaboration with the Blue Ocean Health and Development Relief Initiative (BOHDRI), recently conducted an impactful outreach at the Cherryfield Orphanage in Kpaduma, Asokoro Extension, Abuja.

The outreach fed pupils at the orphanage home, bringing back smiles and life back to the children as the children felt accepted back to the society.

Speaking at the event, the founder of the NGO, Prince Olugbenga Aderin, Baba Oba Geisi of Ile Ife said the NGO's vision was to feed children, support vulnerable children in communities and get them off the street across the country and added, this is not the first time, the NGO will be visiting orphanage homes in Abuja

Prince Aderin added that the outreach is a continuation of Nutrition4Humanity's meal distribution program, which has reached several states in Nigeria since its inception.

The Baba Oba Geisi of Ile Ife, reaffirmed his commitment to ensuring that these vulnerable children have access to nutritious meals.

Prince Aderin noted that the program is integral to fulfilling the organization's overall mission, which he hopes will eventually extend to healthcare.

He also expressed how impressed he was to see the level of care and attention provided to the children at the orphanage under the leadership of Bunmi Aina-Craig, Esq.

Prince Aderin invites those who wish to join this mission of caring for children in need across Nigeria to show their support through Nutrition4Humanity at www.nutrition4humanity.org.

He stated, "God willing, our goal is to cover all 36 states of Nigeria in 2026, for countless children here in Nigeria are in need. Together, we can make a huge impact."

Also Speaking, Bummi Aina Craig Esq, the founder of the orphanage home appreciated Nutrition4Humanity for the visit and called on other NGOs to emulate them in the good works they are doing.

Craig ESQ expressed happiness that orphanage homes are being visited these days and appealed to the NGO to extend the hand of fellowship to other homes as many children were needed.

Dangiwa Urges Housing Ministry to Build on Momentum

By Raphael Atuu, Abuja

Housing and Urban Development Minister, Ahmed Musa Dangiwa, has urged members of staff to build on the current momentum and strengthen the Ministry's service culture in order to sustain its position as a reference point for excellence in public service delivery.

Dangiwa made the call against the backdrop of the various awards won by the ministry, including OHCF, SERVICOM and Sporting events.

The Permanent Secretary of the Ministry, Dr. Shuaib Belgore, received the HCSF "Go Live Category Award" for transiting his ministry to paperless operation.

Under Dr. Belgore, the ministry adopted the full implementation of the Enterprise Content Management (ECM) operations on the 30th of September 2025, signalling the departure from paper operations.

ECM, is a part of the Federal Civil Service Strategy and Implementation Plan 2021-2025 (FCSSIP25), a reform blueprint designed to digitise the federal bureaucracy and transform the civil service into a world-class entity by 2025.

Other awards won by the housing ministry are; 2nd Best Ministerial SERVICOM Unit (Ministry Team A), Permanent Secretary's award for strengthening Servivom operations across the ministry as a very supportive CEO.

The Head of the Ministry's Reform Coordination and Service Improvement, Philips- Ogoniba Ibifuro also received the 2025 Best NODAL Officer (Ministry Team A), for outstanding coordination, leadership, and dedication to service improvement. The Ministry's sporting contingent also won 10 medals at the recently concluded Federal Civil Games festival held in Yola, Adanawa state.

During a brief presentation of the awards to the leadership of the ministry, Minister Dangiwa congratulated the Permanent Secretary Dr. Belgore, the Ministry's Servicom Nodal officer, and members of the ministry's sporting contingent for the honours brought to the ministry

He praised the Permanent Secretary's leadership style, describing it as accountable, team-oriented, and result-driven, noting that the awards represent a win for the entire Ministry.

The Minister as well commended the Permanent Secretary for ensuring the smooth implementation of the paperless system in the Ministry, acknowledging the role of the ICT team in facilitating the transition alongside the efforts of the entire staff.
